10 OPEN THE PUBLIC SCHOOLS.

CHANGES MADE DURING THE SUMMER,

NEW BUILDINGS READY TO BE USED AND 20,000

The public sensols of the city will respen to-morrow steer the summer vacation and arter undergoing more thorough repair, refitting and cleaning than has ever been given to them during a single season. The Department of School Buildings, of which Superintendent Debevoise has charge, is one which has no summer vacation. The work of Mr. Debevoise and his assistant engineers begins on the buildings the last week in June, the day after they have been elosed for the summer; but for several weeks previous to that the draughtamen are busy sketching out the plan for repairs. Last year the attendance in the schools was more than 155,000 pupils from ages ranging from seven years to seventeen, and fully 80,000 of these were boys.

The wear and tear of such an army on the best buildings during a year can be understood by all who know the amount of destruction of which the average small boy is capable. Most of the New-York schools have been strongly and substantially built, but many of them have had no thorough renovation for ten years. Neatly 2,000 pupils were graduated from the higher chases of the grammar schools in June, and it is estimated on the basis of former years by Superintendent Juspe, that fully 8,000 pupils will leave the achools by removals from the city or to begin work, so that at least 10,000 vacant places will be open to new pupils this month, not including the increased accommodations provided by Superintendent Debevoice through shanges and now buildings. This increased accommodation will give room for about 6,000 new pupils and the total school accommodation of the city will be more than 160,000; from 15,000 to 20,000 new pupils are expected to be enrolled. If the increase of new pupils is not more than 10,000 over last year it is believed that they can be amply provided for.

The repairs on the school buildings call for 150 special contracts for 106 schools in the 137 build-neartified.

over last year it is believed that they can be amply provided for.

The repairs on the school buildings call for 150 special contracts for 106 schools in the 137 buildings, representing nearly 300 different departments. Of the amount expended $65,000 has been given to cleaning and improving the heating and sanitary arrangements, to give more light and air to the buildings; $30,000 has been expended on furniture, and a contingent fund of $15,000 has been expended by the ward trustees in small repairs. Altogether a force of nearly 5,000 has heen employed in different capacities pushing forward the work during the hot weather so that all will be ready this week.

At the College of the City of New-York an extrastory has been placed on the laboratory, and many interior alterations have been made which will costed in the aggregate about $10,000. The Normal College has also been entirely refitted and repaired. The retaining wall around the college which has for years been in bad condition and an eyesore to Commissioner Wood, has at last been taken down and rebuilt. The coping of the wall has been lowered in rebuilding and the lawns have been graded and sloped to the sidewalk, giving them a far more attractive appearance that they had before. The main entrance of the college has also been reset and remodelled, and cement sidewalks laid in Sixty-eighth and Sixty-ninth sta., in place of the rough flagstones better in use. The total cost of these changes amounted to less than $7,000.

The new scool buildings which have been in progand coment sidewales laid in Sixty-eighth and Sixtyninth sts., in place of the rough flagstones better in use. The total cot of these changes amounted to less than $7,000.

The new school buildings which have been in progress daring the summer, and which will be onen for pupils the fall are three. All of them were begun last fall, and Mr. Pebevorse has accomplished what never has been done before in the city-in completing these buildings within a year of the time from which the ground was broken. Grammar School No. 2, in Henry-st., the new building for the oldest school site in New-York, will be opened this week. The first building for this school was built in 1811, and accommodated fifty puns. It was the second public school established in the city. The site has been rebuilt on and enlarged three times in seventy-five years, and this new structure will have room for 2.200 scholars, 400 hore than the building which it replaced. The new King-st, building which is now linished will be known as Grammar School No.
8, the number of the old building in rand-st, which has been sold. The grammar department will be entirely for boys, and the school will afford an increased capacity of fully 1,000 pupils. The work on it was not begun until October 20, last year. The new building at Fittieth-st, and Ninth-ave, will not be finished to be used before December, as the contracts on it were delayed until string. It will seat 2.200 pupils and will be quickly filled by the increasing poputation of the vicinity. An addition has been built to Grammar School No. 78, at Onehundred-and-twentieth st, and Pieasant-ave, which will make it the larges sch ol in the city with a scating opacity tor nearly 5,000 children in the several departments. The main building itself is new, having only been opened two years ago, and the addition nearly doubles the original accommodation.
An addition to a three-story building has been made to the school in Sheriff-st., No. 34, giving it room for 400 more pupils. The Board of Educati

Ausgrein novel. The scene

"This book is a thoroughly American novel. The scene is the picturesque region around Chautauqua; the time is the early days e: Mormonism. Button's Inn hat once been famous, but was at the opening of this story old and unprosperous. In the landiord and his wife Mr. Tourges portrays the peculiar religion of that it we, and the ruste material life that developed side by side with it, out of which cann Marquagan and ther fantatic religions. This came Mormonism and other fantastic religions. This study of the social and religions condition of western New-York and northern Ohio halfa century ago makes Mr. Tourgee's story interesting and valuable."--Worceater Spy

From REV. W. R. PATTON.

Media, Penn., July 20, 1887.

For several years I have been in the habit of visiting Mr. Swithin C. Shorthide's Media Academy, and I have made myself acquainted with his methods of teaching. A number of his students attend the church of which I am pastor, and seeme have been members of my Biblis-class. From all my sequinitation with the Academy, I am very glad to speak words of commendation, not only for the advancement of the pupils in their studies, but for the high moral and reingtons standard for which if a shortlidge is constantly and successfully stryling in his school work. He is long all in his power to inculcate a pure morality in the minds and hearts of the vount men and bors intrusted to his care. In Media we are proud of his achoel, and we shall ever seek to advance its interests.
